ernment Will Postpone

FINANCIERS ALSO TAKE HAND

Houses with German Connections Urge That Influence Be Used for Concessions

WASHINGTON, June 5.—American demands on Germany will go forward probably late tonight. The complete draft of the document, reduced to diplomatic language, was approved by President Wilson before he left the White House for his Saturday auto ride today. It was taken to the state department by a confidential messenger, formally approved in its entirety by Secretary Evans whose signature it bears and immediately turned over to the code experts to be reduced to cipher for transmission to Berlin.

It was stated that the note's text will not be made public until after this government is certain it actually is in the hands of Count Von Jagow, the German foreign minister.

Same Tenor as First Note

German officials who inspected the rough draft of the communication were loud in their praise of it. They declared it a most statesmanlike document which would make it very plain to Germany just what the American position is. In most of its essentials they said the Lusitania note's tenor is followed, especially in insisting on Americans' right to travel where they please. They resented the suggestion that the new note purposely leaves the way open for further prolonged discussion. The contrary really is the case, they explained. In calm, firm language,
Germany is told that the United States insists on her rights under international law. The responsibility for a break if one is to come, they stated actually is placed at Germany's door.

President Hopeful

It was known he was distinctly hopeful that Germany would accept the American point of view and that her next reply would be not only responsive to our position but would make it certain that future misunderstanding between the two governments would be impossible.

German Circles today

It was stated that if the imperial government will defer its answer until after Dr. Anton Meyer-Gerhard, personally representing the German ambassador, has had the opportunity to present the ambassador's note to the foreign office, and to talk with the kaiser, the imperial chancellors and the foreign minister, there is not the slightest doubt the fatherland's response will be conciliatory.

Dr. Gerhard has approved the German submarine warfare as a correct

retaliatory move by the Germans
against the British starvation policy, but he is known to have declared privately that such a move should be confined to freighters unless the passenger craft could be held up to five times for the passengers and crew time to escape.

Financiers Take Hand

In addition to Dr. Gerhard's efforts, it was learned here today,
that leading financial houses in this country, with German connections, are also throwing their influence on the side of peace. They are endeavoring to impress on their Berlin connections that antagonism toward the United States would be very serious
for Germany after the war ends.

Although the British complications are hanging fire until after the German situation is adjusted, officials today declared that this government is compiling its arguments toward officers of American ships which they are diverting into British ports, is causing irritation in shipping circles. Captains are ordered from their bridges into their cabins and British naval officers take charge. The excuse given has been that the vessels were to be taken through mine fields, but the captains
and other officers have been practically prisoners.

SHOOTING ROW FATAL

PEORIA, Ill., June 5.—An unknown negro is dead, Mike Keating,
a bartender, is suffering from a bullet wound in his kidneys and Orla Wiles, wife and Charles Boyer and Gertrude Wasson, the latter four of Galzburg, Ill., are detained at the city hall as the result of a three-cornered gun duel in Bridge street early today. The negro shot Keating when ejected from a saloon.
Patrolman Williams and the black exchanged shots. Wiles came up in an automobile and opened fire on the negro. The latter fell dead with a bullet in his brain.

HUNDREDS ATTEND BIG DANCE OTTO MOOS GIVES FOR LOCAL BUSINESSMEN

Sun-browned farmers and dapper businessmen dancing with each other's wives and daughters in a long, rough-boarded hall still fragrant with the hay it housed all winter, under the flickering lights of three big lamps swung from the rafters was the picture that more than a hundred La Crosse people carried away with them last night as their machines swung out of Will Hauser's barnyard for home, calling back congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Otto Moos on the remarkable success of their unique community feast and frolic.

Between two and three hundred people attended the big barn dance.
It was held in Will Hauser's big hayloft on the old Richards place for greater capacity and convenience, and the farm-yard outside the "hall" looked like field headquarters of a European general staff with the half-hundred or so automobiles parked everywhere about it, their combined headlights brightly illuminating the scene. Inside was a hot and happy crowd, howling to partners in old-fashioned square dances, gliding about in two-steps and waltzes, or astonishing the unaccustomed boards of the old barn with the latest fox-trot and hesitation dips and gyrations. Coats were off in homage to the warm weather and formality was a word without meaning. Everybody got acquainted with everybody else.

Picnic Big Success

The afternoon picnic at the Otto
Moos farm at the head of Sand Lake Coulee was a fitting preliminary to the big dance. About five o'clock the cars began to appear over the brow of the hill down which the road leads to Moos' place. In quick succession they followed each other until at least a score of machines were parked on the lawn and the meadow adjoining. Their occupants scattered all over the home acre of the farm, examining with wonder the scrupulously neat whitewashed stable,
and wandering over the wooded bluffs which come close to the barnyard on every side. The feminine contingent exclaimed in delight over sundry flocks of fluffy chickens a few days out of the shell, scampering families of spotted pigs, and three friendly and confiding colts of a month or so, whose mothers whinied with pride at the attention attracted by their frolicsome offspring.
The men cast knowing eyes over Mr.
Moos' prize-winning horses and asked

LA CROSSE WALLOPS BASEBALL PLAYERS OF EAU CLAIRE U. C. T.

Travelers Convention Closes

with Rebuke to Governor and Opponents of Anti-
Tipping Bill

La Crosse members of the United Commercial Travelers are some ball players, so it is said at Eau Claire today. They walloped the convention baseball team by a score of 12 to 3 in an errorless game. The baseball festivities wound up the convention week, the delegates leaving at 3 p. m. from La Crosse.

Governor Philipp before the convention last night tried to "square

himself" with the commercial men
for vetoing the anti-tipping law recently passed by the legislature, but according to dispatches today he received a "chilly reception."

Several resolutions were adopted condemning the assemblymen who voted against the bill and the feeling among the travelers against these is very strong.

NEW ATTACK UPON GALLIPOLI TURKS BEGUN BY ALLIES

Fresh Troops from Transports Join Assault and Issue of Battle Is in Doubt

ATHENS, June 5.—Supported by a raking fire from the warships, the allied expeditionary forces on Gallipoli peninsula are attacking the Turkish positions all along the shore.

Dispatches from Mytilene today
said the general advance was ordered yesterday after the last of the allies' reinforcements had been debarked near the southern end of the peninsula. The Turks are stubbornly defending themselves and the result of the battle is in doubt.

PROBE LONG LIST OF QUEER DEATHS

Owen County Authorities
Investigate Causes Leading to Alleged Suicide of Coroner-Undertaker

SPENCER, Ind., June 5.—While the authorities waited on the finding of the chemist in Indianapolis, who is examining the stomach of F. Edward Drescher, the coroner-undertaker
of Owen county, to determine the cause of death, they prepared a list of recent mysterious deaths and planned to exhume the bodies for an examination in case it is found Drescher poisoned himself.

The theory that Drescher was the man who poisoned many Owen county people that he might benefit by burying their bodies, after having protected himself by sitting on the cases as coroner, found an increasing number of followers today.
The Owen county grand jury will take up the case Monday.

BIGAMIST NABBED AND PLEADS GUILTY HIRT MAKES ARREST

Paul D. Christian Draws
Year and Half in Prison
when Editor of Investigator Makes Charge

TWO WIVES IN SAME HOUSE

Superintendent Dewey Also
Gets Warrant but Hirt's Is Acted Upon; His Charge Holds

An infant threw her milk bottle
to the floor in the county courtroom this morning smashing it to small bits. The baby was held by its mother. The husband was being sentenced to one and one-half years in state's prison. Another mother, also the wedded wife of the man who was being sentenced, glowed at the other wife as Judge Jonn Brindley severed the ties which had bound one husband and two wives
in the single home for one year.

The husband was Paul D. Christian, for several years manager of a large hay farm near Grand Crossing.
The wives were Mrs. Mary E. Kronz-Christian, and Violet Le Vin-Christian.

The grandmother of the baby,
mother of Mrs. Kronz-Christian, sat with her daughter behind the court enclosure.

Christian was sentenced on a statutory charge, the outgrowth of the double matrimonial affair which has attracted the attention of city and county officials here for several months but which was never prosecuted.

As Christian was sentenced on the charge which practically annulled
the second marriage, the decree "set free" Mrs. Kronz-Christian, who within a month will become a mother for a second time.

The sentence was the culmination of a ten days' investigation by Joseph F. Hirt and William McGaughran, editors of the "Crooked Copper,"
who were appealed to as a last resort by Mrs. R. S. Sanders, prominent Wisona woman and mother of the second wife of Christian, Mrs. Sanders claims she appealed to Hirt only after efforts to secure action by the officers of the law had failed.

Two warrants for Christian's arrest were secured yesterday afternoon. One was taken out by D. C.
Dewey, superintendent of the La Crosse Rescue Mission, and the other was secured by Hirt. Hirt, a constable, and William McGaughran, a farmer, made the arrest at the Goddard farm. Mr. Dewey's warrant was served later and the charge, one of a lesser character, was dismissed this morning.

Woman's Nerves Give Way

As Christian's baby, the daughter of the woman he took in marriage
after three years of matrimonial life
with wife number one, broke its milk
bottle, the Levin woman's nerves
gave way and she directed a tirade
at the wife who had shared her husband's affections.

The court offered no objections to the woman's remarks.

Judge Brindley had characterized the trio as being without a trace of moral sense, although the Levin woman discarded morality as having nothing to do with the case.

"This man married me and contracted to aid me in caring for my two children," she said, "and I could not prevent the second marriage and was forced to stay at Christian's home."

The case first came to the attention of authorities last fall, when D.
C. Dewey, superintendent of the La Crosse Rescue Mission went to the Christian home to ascertain the condition of one of the Christian babies, said to be ill. Mr. Dewey's efforts to secure action in the matter failed, but he has kept an eye on the case and was lately stirred to renewed action by the knowledge that another victim of the crime was coming into the world.

Mrs. Sanders made the statement

RUMANIA TO STAY NEUTRAL IS REPORT RIFE IN BERLIN

Russia Said to Have Refused
Demand for Territory
Put Forward by Balkan State

ALLIES FAIL TO MOVE CZAR

Rumania Reported to Have Broken Off the Negotiations with
Slavs

BERLIN, via The Hague, June 5.
—The allies have failed in the efforts to induce Rumania to follow Italy into the war. Russia and Rumania have been unable to come to terms and private advices received here today indicate that the threat of a Rumanian invasion of Austrian territory has at least been temporarily removed.

Russia, according to reports brought here, refused to accede to some of Rumania's territorial demands. The pressure of England and France and finally of the Italian king failed to move the czar, and Rumania is reported to have ended the negotiations.

"The defeat of the attempt to get Rumania into the war is a greater Austro-German victory than the capture of Przemyśl," said the Local Anzeiger today.

BATTLE IS BEGUN

ABOUT ROVERETO

Italians Advance Upon the Austrian Fortress from South and Southeast;
Guns Batter Walls

ROME, June 5.—The battle of Rovereto has been begun. Italian alpin-ists and Bersaglieri are advancing on the Austrian fortress town from the south and the southeast. Austrian guns, captured with Zugno have begun bombarding the city from a great height.

A second Italian army is co-operating with the force that pushed rapidly up the Adige to the attack upon Rovereto. It is making its way along the mountain paths overlooking Valarsa. The advance guard at this second force is less than eight miles from Rovereto.

Corriere d'Italia today printed an interesting story of how a herd of native buffaloes aided the Italians in taking Monte Carlo. The cattle were behind the wire entanglements constructed by the Austrians to rehict the Italian advance. At the first explosion of bombs, they stampeded
and went crashing through the entanglements. The Italians rushed through the gap and took the Austrian trenches.

LABORER HUNGRY

STEALS OLD WIRE—

AND GETS 30 DAYS

Frank Osborn, laborer, stole copper wire belonging to the Wisconsin
Railway, Light and Power company here because he was hungry, he told the court this morning. He was sentenced to thirty days in county jail.

Osborn shoveled coal at the coal docks in Milwaukee for eight cents a ton, he said, and was starving.

The took thirty-five pounds of the wire where it had been left by employees of the company on Loomis street. The wire is worth sixteen cents per pound.

WAR ON BALL POOLS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 5.— Wholesale arrests were promised by the police today in an effort to stop

have been numerous. Cigar stores, saloons and cafes are said to have been the offenders.

Mr. and Mrs. Olson Married 50 Years Celebrate Today

Fifty years ago, on June 5, 1865,

sen were married in Norway. Today
Mr. and Mrs. Olson are quietly celebrating their golden wedding anniversary at their home, 1402 South
Sixth street.

There were no long prepared festivities. The day was spent in quiet.
The three sons of the couple, August,
Carl and Theodore, all of whom live in La Crosse, called on their parents
during the day and friends visited them to offer congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Olson have lived in

BREAD RIOTS IN CITIES OF MEXICO

Lack of Government to Help Delays Relief Work of American Red Cross

"I AM THE MAN" SAYS CARRANZA

Former "First Chief" Preparing Brief to Show
Wilson He Ought to Be Recognized

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Serious
bread riots are taking place in many cities in Mexico, according to messages received here today. The Red Cross was redoubling efforts to expedite relief work. Some foodstuffs already were enroute to points where the suffering is worst but because it is necessary to make distribution arrangements and there is no government to help, delay cannot be avoided.

Gen. Carranza will make a lengthy reply to the president's open note,
accepting the principles of the suggestions. It will be in the nature of a legal brief, representing that Carranza has never departed from the original purpose of the revolution;
that he is the majority's choice and that, as a matter of fact, the United States should recognize his regime.

BILL TO CURTAIL

DOCTORS' CHARGES

PASSES SENATE

Assembly Considers Measure to Divide Eau Claire County at Eau Claire River

MADISON, Wis., June 5.—Because many of the bills presented by physicians in industrial accidents are believed to be excessive, the assembly
has sent to engrossment the Bray
bill, which gives the industrial commission power to pass upon all medical and hospital bills in cases of dispute. The bill has already passed the senate and will be up for final passage in the assembly next Tuesday.

A new bill has been presented in the assembly by the committee on fish and game which seeks to divide Eau Claire county, giving to the county of Chippewa all towns north of the Eau Claire river. It is said that this bill if enacted into law would give Chippewa county another member of the legislature, but would probably give the city of Eau Claire complete control of the county board of that county. The assembly has re-killed the Johnson bill giving the county boards power to create a county board of education, from among its own membership, that shall exercise the same powers as the present county boards of education. It also re-killed the Donnelly bill for the non-partisan nomination and election of county officials in Milwaukee county. The bill was opposed by Assemblyman Bernier and favored by Assemblyman Killa, both of Milwaukee.

KAISER IN GALICIA

BERLIN, via The Hague, June 5.
—Kaiser Wilhelm today arrived at the Galician headquarters of the Austrian Archduke Frederick, and was given a tremendous ovation by the Austro-German armies.

The kaiser had planned the trip
by motor to celebrate the birthday of the Austrian archduke. His arrival on the heels of the Austro-German victory at Przemyśl aroused the greatest enthusiasm.

itals Believed Influence
Causing the Activity

LONDON, June 5.—With every resource at his command, the kaiser is now striking his mightiest blows
against the ring of enemies encircling his empire.

A powerful German offensive has been launched against the British at Ypres. From the region of Hooe the Teutons have renewed their bombardment of the old Flanders
town, preparatory to a grand assault and an attempt to break the British front.

German submarines are combing
the waters of the Von Tirpitz "war zone." They have sunk at least sixteen vessels, four of them neutrals,
in the last forty-eight hours.

In Galicia, General Mackensen is pressing on in a desperate attempt to crush the Russians and drive them out of Galicia by rapid, hammering strokes.

In Russian Courland, in southeastern Poland, north of Arras, and at several other sectors of their double battle front the Germans are driving hard against the enemy's positions.

To Attack at Ypres?
Dispatches from Amsterdam and
The Hague and official communiques from the German, English and French war offices all point to the beginning of a new effort to rush the British back from Ypres. German reinforcements already have been hurried into action along the Menin road and bloody fighting has occured at Hooe, only two miles east of Ypres. The British war office contradicts the German claim that Hooe has been stormed and captured, but admits that the enemy now holds a part of the village.

All British reports indicate that conditions inside the German empire are growing worse. The authorities are reported to be taking drastic means to conserve the nation's food supply until another crop is harvested.

Ammunition Shortage Urges Dash
Confronted with these conditions
and with the ring about him steadily closing in through the arrival of fresh troops, the kaiser is reported to have ordered a desperate attempt to overwhelm the allies by a series of great rushes. Frank admissions from both London and Petrograd
by serious lack of ammunition undoubtedly have influenced the emperor's course. All winter the German ammunition works have been turning out trainloads of shells, and it is known that the German general staff believes its ammunition supply at least 75 per cent greater than the combined stock of the allies.

Daddy's Bedtime

The Song Sparrow
Story — And Her
Cunning Home.

I MUST tell you about the song sparrow and the cunningest little home you ever heard of," said daddy as Jack and Evelyn climbed up on his knees for the evening story.

"The little brown song sparrow was a very wise little bird. She came up from the south when the first warm breezes of springtime came, and she just had one idea. It was of having a nice little home for herself and keeping house for herself, just the same as she had done down in the sunny south-land."

"Some of the other birds were ahead of the little brown song sparrow. For instance, there was the robin redbreast, who had her nest up in a tall tree in the front yard, where she dwelt with her husband and which they expected would before long be inhabited by some cunning little birdies. And there was old Mr. Crow, who had his wicked black eye on the field where he knew corn would grow later and who had his nest in a tall pine back in the woods. And there was old Grandfather Owl, who spent his time asking 'Who-o-o?' to which nobody answered, and he had his nest back in the woods."

"This little brown song sparrow just wanted that home, and she cast about in her little bird mind for the best place for it. And she had to be careful, for the song sparrow makes her home in the ground."

"It was a beautiful village where she had made up her mind to pass her summer, and while the little sparrow didn't know the name of it, of course, she looked it over with a critical eye and decided that it was quite good enough for her. So she flew over it, looking for a nice place for the home."

"She had to be careful about picking out the place, for she wanted to be sure to get one where no horrid cat or dog would disturb her or the little birdies which were to come. And as she flew she passed in the sunshine over a lovely lake, and by this lake ran a fine, smooth road. And there were no houses for quite a distance, so there would not be much danger of a horrid cat or dog coming to disturb her."

"So the little sparrow selected a spot among the grasses just at the edge of the road, and she dug a hole in the soft soil and covered its top with grass so that it couldn't be seen unless you looked very close and which made it also waterproof so not a drop of rain could get in. Then she laid three little speckled eggs and sat on them till three lovely little birdies came. And the little bird family was very happy that summer with its housekeeping, and by and by the little children were big enough to fly away by themselves."

Short Story

JUNE

BY KEITH KENYON

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Mrs. Wayland looked up from the letter she was reading and cried delightedly:

"What do you think, Dick? June Rose is coming!"

"Good!" returned Dick. "When is she coming?"

"Tomorrow." Turning to her brother-in-law she added, "A girl you will like, Archer."

"Who could help liking a girl with such a name?" retorted Archer Wayland.

Daisy Wayland shot a mischievous glance at her mother.

"But June Rose doesn't live up to her lovely name, Uncle Archer," she protested. "She is quite plain and not so very young."

"I don't like bread-and-butter misses," teased Archer.

"Although I am sixteen I am not bread-and-butter," pouted Daisy.

"Why, June must be thirty, or over."

"I adore girls of thirty, or over."

"I expect she is perfectly willing to be adored; she is quite an old maid," was Daisy's parting shot.

"Daisy is so foolish," sighed Daisy's mother, who was halfway over thirty herself. "Now, June is not pretty, but she has charm, and I know you will like her, Archer."

Archer Wayland smiled into the bowl of his pipe. He was not blind to the schemes of his matchmaker's sister-in-law, but he was quite confident of his own impenetrability to the shafts of love. Many matrimonial snares had Emma set for his wary feet, but so far had he escaped—and he would escape Miss June Rose of the delectable name.

But he reckoned without his host—in this instance represented by Daisy Wayland, who at that very moment was holding a strongly emphasized conversation over the long distance telephone.

"Archer, you are the laziest member of the family—you will have to go and meet June Rose," declared Mrs. Wayland the next day.

"Where is Dick?"

"He hasn't returned from Brockton. Daisy is spending the day with Edith Lawler and I have an appointment with the hairdresser. Someone must meet June Rose at the station, it seems so unfriendly not to be met."

"But this is my vacation, Emma! You promised I shouldn't do a thing I didn't want to—and there's my hammock and book and pipe."

"Now, you shall go anyway, Archer, just to punish you for your lack of gallantry, although it can't be much of a punishment for you to meet such a charming girl as June Rose."

"A lot she'll care about seeing an entire stranger," grumbled Archer.

"You are better than no one at all," flattered his sister-in-law kindly. "flattered his sister-in-law kindly."

So at 2 o'clock, when Fritz brought the big motor car around to the door, Archer, immaculate in white flannels and Panama hat, came out and took his seat in the tonneau.

On the way to the little red painted station he quite forgot his errand, the countryside was so beautiful. June was his favorite month, and June's roses were clambering everywhere, filling the air with intoxicating perfume. The distant hills were purple against the afternoon sky. The sun dappled the valleys and sparkled on the river that flowed through it.

A whistle woke him from his reverie. The train wheeled to a standstill, grunted and moved on, leaving a solitary passenger on the platform.

All Archer's pleasant anticipations vanished with his first glimpse of Miss June Rose, a plain featured young woman, dressed in a severely cut gray cloth suit with stiffly starched collar and cuffs of white linen at throat and wrist. She wore a mannish Panama hat, like his own, and her red lips were set in a stern, uncompromising line.

At the first appraising glance Archer decided that her large gray-green eyes were her best feature. The lashes were long and thick and black and curling in strange contrast to her vivid red hair, which was parted on her forehead and drawn back in flat waves over small pink ears. On her rather good nose was perched a gold eyeglass.

Despite the disappointment at this vision, Archer mustered his charming smile and advanced with bared head to meet the newcomer.

"Miss Rose? I am Dick's brother. Emma has sent me to take you safely to Westlawn. Fritz will take your trunk checks."

June Rose smiled primly at him and permitted him to hand her into the car. When Fritz had strapped the smart little black trunk on behind and they were gliding down the incline that led to the Westlawn road the girl uttered a little cry of delight.

"I am never tired of this view," she said almost under her breath. "It always seems to me that June is more perfect here than in any other place."

He could not restrain the swift glance he shot at her profile. What a wonderful complexion she had—pale and creamy.

She turned quickly and the illusion was lost. She was so trim and mannish in look and attire. He would not have been surprised if she had lighted a cigarette. That gold trinket hanging from a long chain looked suspiciously like a cigarette case.

Miss Rose turned her gray-green eyes on him and her glance was electrically piercing. Archer felt that she was reading his thoughts.

"And how is poor Mr. Archer?"

Wayland?" asked June Rose. "Daisy informs me that her uncle is in wretched health. But old people are subject to rheumatism, and one never knows."

"Old people!" gasped Archer Wayland in helpless wrath at the wickedness of Daisy. "Why, you see—er—I'm Archer Wayland; and I'm quite well, thank you."

"How stupid of me," apologized June with a languid flicker of her black lashes. "I ought to have remembered that Dick had only one brother."

"My gray hairs should have warned you," smiled Archer stiffly, for in the past women had raved over his prematurely whitening locks.

"Really, I'm afraid I didn't notice," apologized June. Then she added with manifest relief, "Here is dear Westlawn, and Daisy is coming to meet us."

Daisy climbed into the car and the machine went on to the house. Mrs. Wayland came to the steps to greet the slender girl in gray. She held the gloved hands of June Rose and scanned her with round, inquiring eyes.

"For pity's sake, June, what have you done to yourself?" she gasped. "You are a perfect fright."

"Thanks," murmured June, and in an aside she hissed at the giggling Daisy. "You little beast."

Archer Wayland wandered off to his hammock and book and pipe. But the hammock had lost its charm, the book was dull and his pipe would not draw.

"Dart the women!" he uttered. "I believe I'll send myself a telegram to come back to town. But her eyes were certainly good. But a girl with red hair must have some temper."

So at 5 o'clock Archer was overjoyed to take advantage of a special delivery letter that opportunely came to him and went up to town without again meeting Miss June Rose.

A week later he went back to Westlawn, firm in the belief that the disagreeable young woman had departed. His arrival was greeted with delight by Mrs. Wayland.

"Do go and find Daisy," she urged. "She is picking roses for the dinner table; she will have a basketful and she may need help."

Archer went whistling down the path to the rose garden, which was secluded within a high privet hedge. There was no sign of Daisy's boyish form and golden head, but the rose garden was not untenanted.

A young woman was sitting on a marble bench drying her hair in the warmth of the June sunshine. Archer could not see her face, for her back was turned to him, but he knew that the rippling lory of tawny hair did not belong to his niece.

Suddenly a pair of white dimpled hands were lifted to gather the red tresses.

A pebble crunched under Archer's foot and the woman turned her face to him.

A heart-shaped face of creamy white, with arching dark brows and jet black lashes that fringed gray-green eyes, opened wide in startled wonderment. Scarlet lips with dimples at the corners and flashing white teeth that disappeared as the smile vanished, and then the lips straightened into the prim lines of Miss June Rose's mouth.

"It's no use," said Archer deliberately. "I've seen how you can look—and you needn't masquerade any longer."

Framed in the waving meshes of her hair, her face was indescribably lovely. Wave after wave of pink fished the white skin and her wonderful eyes grew almost black.

"It was all Daisy's doing!" she murmured contritely.

"Oh, Daisy doesn't matter," said Daisy's uncle cruelly. "I ran away from you, for no matter what reason, and I came back because I simply knew that a girl named June Rose must be—well, June is my month—and may we begin our acquaintance all over again?"

June flushed under his ardent glance.

"Why begin over again?" she asked demurely. "I think we've made a very good beginning!"

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Peace

Take down the battered bugle

And let it speak again—

Let the drum's mad beat

In the sunlit street

Keep time for the marching men.

Unfurl the tattered banner

To wave as once of yore

O'er the sleeping head

Of the soldier dead

Who shall look on its folds no more.

Take down the battered bugle

And sound the old time note—

Let us listen still

To the message shrill

That comes from its ancient throat.

But the red and rusted rifle,

Shall leap not again

To the breasts of men—

Let them hang where they are,

Where they are!

MILK TEAM RUNS BOTTLES SCATTERED

Milk was free on the north side yesterday morning. That is one could pick it up off the street.

Nels Jensen's lively span of bay horses took it on themselves to produce a little excitement. They did. Starting on George street, the lively pair tore down Clinton street and over to Caledonia street, where they were brought to a stop. Several milk customers were informed that the supply has been suddenly cut off. The bottles were strewn along the streets.

AUTO ACCIDENT AVERTED

Dr. John C. Huecker, north side dentist, came near losing his automobile and Mrs. Hammond, well known vegetable woman on the north side, almost lost her rig when the two vehicles collided on Caledonia street at 7:45 this morning. As it was no damage was done, not even a vegetable spilled, but it was only because the automobile was brought to a quick stop and the fact that the two vehicles were traveling in the same direction on Caledonia street. Mrs. Hammond, it is said, turned across the street directly in the path of the machine.

WHITE WAY PLAN MEETS APPROVAL ON ROSE STREET

Business Men Plan Installation of First Ornamental Lighting in North La Crosse This Summer

Is the North side going to get a White Way?

According to present indications and the spirit of the merchants on Rose street, which has been proposed for the improvement, it will. During the four days since the project was first broached by Henry Baum, former president of the North Side Progressive league, the matter has met with the almost unanimous approval of the merchants of Rose street, who number nearly two dozen. Only one dissenting voice has been raised to the proposed move. The matter was discussed at a meeting of the merchants of the street recently at the Schulze bakery. Another meeting is called for tomorrow afternoon at the same place, at which it is thought final plans for the installation of the white way will be completed and an organization formed for carrying out the work. Henry Baum has been suggested as president.

Business men are enthusiastic over the project. Whether or not the lamps, which probably would number ten or twelve, would be installed on both sides of the street or not has not yet been settled. As the east side of the street is exclusively residential, it is doubtful that lamps would be installed on that side. The approximate cost would be fifty dollars per post. They would be the same as installed on Main street.

William Doerflinger, president of the Park Store, and a property owner on Rose street, has promised to donate two lamps provided the project meets with the approval of the men at the meeting tomorrow.

CAVALRY HORSES FOR BRITISH ARMY PASS NORTH SIDE

One hundred and eighty strong, enough to equip a company of cavalry, a herd of horses passed through the north side yesterday over the Milwaukee road bound for the British remount station at Calumet, Ill. They were brought from Miles City, Mont., which has proved one of the best supply stations for horses for the warring nations since the outbreak of hostilities.

It was said by the man in charge of the horses that they brought $208 each from the British government. They were raw and untrained, having never been saddled or harnessed.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY IS GREAT SUCCESS

Crowded House Turns Out and Every Member of the Cast Stars; Waits Are Eliminated

"All-of-a-Sudden Peggy," presented by the senior class of the high school at the theater last night, more than fulfilled the expectations of the crowded house which turned out to see it. Every member of the cast starred in his special work and the entire play went through without a moment's hesitation. Not once did the spectators feel bored. Everything was snappy and interesting.

Edith Gates, in the role of Peggy, and Thomas Roche as leading man, carried off their difficult parts with honor, both receiving rounds of applause. The cleverness of Thomas Roche and the ease with which he carried his part marks him an excellent amateur.

Maynard Barney, in the role of an eccentric "Lord Crackenthorpe," whose hobby is spiders, brought the house into roars.

Lady Crackenthorpe, mother of the lord, was impersonated by Calverna Linse.

The Hon. Mrs. Colquhoun, impersonated by Eunice Campbell, was another part which was much applauded.

Mrs. O'Mara Rich in Brogue, Marion Vesey representing Mrs. O'Mara, an old Irish lady, also must be ranked with the stars because of the clever manner in which she managed her part. Miss Vesey had the Irish brogue well in hand and the rich accents of her voice carried the house time and again.

The Hon. Millicent Kepple and Major Archie Phipps, members of the Crackenthorpe household, were well impersonated by Marie Esch and Alex Feinberg.

Jack Menzies, whose part was carried by Gordon Holway, was represented as a friend of Jimmy, the leading man, and extricated him time and again from tight places.

Two men servants, represented by Andrew Boyd and Russell Anderson, added much to the humor of the play. At one point especially, when Andrew Boyd as butler was called upon to set the table and then remove the dishes after the meal while there were none of the principals on the stage, he carried the house into paroxysms of laughter by the matter-of-fact way he executed the task.

wise questions about crops and farming methods. There were enough youngsters with the party to start a ball game in the meadow which shortly attracted a number of shirt-sleeved business men. The game got formally under way after Leigh Toland had chased his bull dog Billy over an acre or two of meadow and got the ball away from him, and progressed exciting for two heavy-hitting innings. Then L. H. White got one square on the trademark and lifted it into a hayfield and the game ended with both sides hunting for the ball. It is confidently asserted that the score at the end of the game was quite a bit to a good deal, but the cheering feminine onlookers forgot to be sure which side was ahead.

Thick Yellow Cream—Yum!

After the game automobile cushions and table cloths appeared on the close-clipped lawn and the visiting got down to the business of eating with evident relish. Mr. and Mrs. Moos were everywhere with huge pots of delicious coffee and Miss Marie Moos trailed them with a bowl of sugar and a vast pitcher of thick yellow cream—"impossible cream," one boarding-house-fed young bachelor from La Crosse called it.

It was gathering dusk when the procession started back down the coulee toward the "dance hall," a mile back along the road they had come. The trip to the Hauser place was a succession of turn-outs for the farmers' rigs which were carrying neighbors of Otto Moos to his dance. As the road wound through the wooded bluffs occupants exclaimed with delight as they looked back and saw the long procession of headlights swinging and dipping through the trees behind them.

At the Hauser place a number of machines from town had already arrived with parties who came out for the dance, and with the arrival of the music the fun was under way within a few minutes. The dance lasted until nearly midnight.

GENERAL PEARSON TO TALK ON WAR

Noted Boer Leader Will Speak at the La Crosse Theater Monday Evening

General Samuel Pearson, Boer leader and lecturer, who recently came very prominently into public notice in this country by instituting suit in Milwaukee against the Allis-Chalmers company, claiming it was violating the neutrality laws by manufacturing munitions of war, will deliver a lecture in the LaCrosse Theater Monday evening.

General Pearson is a naturalized American. He has been in Europe since the war broke out, in Holland, Germany, Belgium and right at the battle fronts, having been given greater privileges than any other civilian by the German authorities to inspect their methods and their operations.

General Pearson brought a similar suit at New Orleans during the Boer war, when he succeeded in procuring a temporary injunction against the shipment of horses for use of the British army in South Africa.

"I am going to cause a real sensation in this country from coast to coast," said the general recently in Milwaukee. "Every fact will become known to the people of the United States and the names of those made public who are aiding the allies. I am doing this purely on my own initiative because I want this country to become neutral in fact as well as in declaration."

The result of the present policy is to breed hatred between the Americans of foreign descent. The German-American is learning to hate the English—and French-American. There is no reason for this. The war is not of our making and we should be as little concerned in it as possible." Gen. Pearson exhibits 2,000 feet of film of the latest war pictures.

General Pearson is a man of attractive personality and an interesting talker. Particularly does his description of the German fighting organization command attention, and the genius and resources of German scientists is shown to be playing a most important part in the war in that they have found or created substitutes for staple essentials importation of which has been stopped.

The general invites people to question him during his address.

JONES' MASQUE RETAINS FEATURES OF OLDER TYPES

Small Part of Appeal Depends Upon Dancing and Music as Compared with Text

FOLLOWS GOOD OLD TRADITION

Masque Is Made Up of Mythical and Allegorical Characters and Has Moral Purpose

(By Howard Mumford Jones.)

As the concluding paper of this series of brief articles I have been asked to say something of my own masque, "The Masque of Marsh and River," to be produced by the normal school. This production is a revival of the older traditions of the masque so far as is consonant with modern conventions, and approaches more nearly to the type of Elizabethan masque than even Percy Mackaye's "Bird Masque." So far as I know it is unique in this respect.

I have retained in this production three of the principal features of the older masques, the spectacular effect, the dancing, the music. The appeal of the production will be as much to the eye as to the ear. Furthermore the text is made to introduce the dancing, as Jonson's productions, and the dancing will be of that formal and rich order which Henry VIII, like modern fete day audiences so loved. Finally, the music includes incidental lyrics, to be sung both on and off the stage, and therefore that but a small part of the appeal of the production will depend upon the dancing and the music as upon the text.

Furthermore, I have followed the good old tradition in giving the masque a moral purpose—the conservation of beauty spots is, baldly, the text preached. It is from this theme that the incident springs, and to the necessity of this doctrine that the audience ideally is to be converted.

It goes without saying that the text is written in verse, and the characters are half mythical, half allegorical, bordering on that shadowland between fancy and personification which the masque-writers loved. The atmosphere is made fairy-like, and the whole production lifted into an ideal world of order and beauty.

There is no strict anti-masque. However, the fairy parts of the production are set in a frame of reality which, by contrast with the elfin character of the body of the production, heightens the effect, bridges naturally the gulf between life and imagination, and corresponds in general to the anti-masque. Mortals are introduced to mingle in fairy society as they do in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," even so practicable an invention as the automobile makes its appearance all with an intent to make the transition from La Crosse to dreamland as easy as possible.

The character of the Spirit of June, the principal figure, is a compound of the elfin and the human. She is by turns gentle, fierce, elvish, heartless, girlish and queenly. The other principal character, Grandia, is an attempt to personify the magnificent hill which is being blasted to pieces before our unheeding eyes.

The minor speaking characters include a very important Bat, the Spirits of Sunrise and of Sunset, and of course the four human beings so singularly transported out of their daily lives.

The production should have a peculiar appeal to us of La Crosse, because it makes a step toward a goal I want very much to reach—namely, the building up of a Mississippi school of literature, the presenting in literary form something of the grandeur and beauty and pathos of our magnificent river. "The Masque of Marsh and River" I have tried to blend the old and the new, the Grand old bluff, the herons, marsh-mallows, sandbar imps, the Mississippi itself, all these characters figure in it, and they all represent things we know ourselves and want other people to know about. It is by such local productions as this, by a stirring of our corporate conscience that we will most surely foster a local literature and a poetry of our own soil. It is therefore a peculiarly appealing thing that the normal school has agreed to do; and the directors and participants, as well as the audience, can feel quite distinctly that the performance is of some use to be—of more than transitory importance; they are laying the foundation of something new in the poetry of the United States.

Does this sound too ponderous? I think not. We should certainly never get the Mississippi valley on the stage or into books so long as our plays come from Chicago and our novels and poems are imported from New York. We have, most emphatically, to start the thing ourselves. We may, by this attempt, encourage other cities to "go thou and do likewise." We are not alone in the campaign; the pageant of St. Louis last year is an attempt at the same thing in another form—and we are very near good company, but we are very near the front of the company. That is why I wrote "The Masque of Marsh and River" for La Crosse; that is why Mr. Coate, Mr. Homer Cotton, Dr. Carl B. Sputh and their assistants think it worth while to go to all the trouble and expense of staging the thing. We want you to help us; we want La Crosse to help us; we want to do something not only unique, but of permanent value, something of importance as great as the Art association or the park system, or the city schools. The production will cost money, and though the normal school has said nothing about it, they are probably worried over the finances. Will you be there?

today that she had urged some sort of a prosecution last fall. The Associated Charities, poor commissioner, the Rescue Mission and others were approached, she said, but it was concluded that bigamy charges could not be started, as Christian married wife number two at Winona. No other charges were suggested.

Hirt possesses wedding certificates of both of the Christian weddings, and a stack of letters which Christian wrote to the Kronz girl before they were wedded. They are full of endearing terms.

Following is a history of Christian's love affairs, as made known by the evidence which Hirt holds:

History of Love Affairs

Violet Levin, the first wife of Christian, was the wife of P. Levin. They lived for a time in Wood county, Wis., and were divorced there on September 14, 1907. Hirt holds a copy of the judgment signed by the clerk of circuit court of Wood county.

The Levin woman and Christian were married January 11, 1911 at St. Paul.

Rev. A. C. Haase of the Evangelical Lutheran Trinity church of that city signed the certificate.

Christian brought the woman to La Crosse. Shortly afterwards, Christian took Mary E. Kronz into his home as a servant. He became attached to her, according to letters of sensational character which Hirt now holds, and in the course of events promised her marriage.

The second Christian marriage certificate, issued at Winona, is dated April 11, 1914.

The Kronz woman is now living at 1806 Wood street. Mrs. Levin-Christian admitted having recently taken her food. The woman supported herself until recently but was forced to seek shelter.

Winona Authorities Notified

The district attorney of Winona county, Minn., failed to institute charges against Christian, it is said here, although he was notified.

Christian did not say a word aside from pleading guilty to the charge, and he did not deny being legally married to both of the women.

Meantime the mother of the girl had appealed to Messrs. Hirt and McLaughren; she turned over to them her daughter's letters from Christian, which admitted the relationship and some of which were actionable under the federal mail laws. Mr. McLaughren went to Winona and secured a copy of Christian's first marriage certificate, and thus completed the essential evidence.

Thus it happened that on the same day Supt. Dewey and Hirt and McLaughren secured warrants for Christian's arrest, and the latter personally made the arrest. As the evidence sustained the graver of the

LUEDKE TO REMAIN IN SALOON GAME OLSON IS NEIGHBOR

Ed Luedke, Third street saloon-keeper, who always used to have a saloon license No. 1 in past years, objects to the story that Louis C. Olson, who beat him to the city hall with his money this morning, had purchased his place of business. Olson is a neighbor of Luedke's, and Luedke says although Olson beat him in with his license this year, Luedke is going to stay very much in business.

Two additional licenses were taken out today.

NANCE O'NEIL IN 'PRINCESS ROMANOFF'

Nance O'Neil, with her vital personality and compelling magnetism, is beyond question America's most emotional actress. She has been proclaimed as such by no less a master of stagecraft than David Belasco, in whose drama "The Lily" she electrified New York audiences into perfect storms of noisy enthusiasm. The enterprise of William Fox, the president of Fox Film Corporation, in securing for the screen the services of this gifted actress, was amply demonstrated in "Kreutzer Sonata," the William Fox production in which Miss O'Neil made her photoplay debut. She now appears in the wonderful character of Princess Romanoff in the William Fox feature, "Princess Romanoff," based upon Victorien Sardou's greatest play, "Fédora."

"Princess Romanoff" will be at the Majestic for three days starting Sunday.

144 Out of 150 Targets; Olympic Champion Leads the Professional Shooters

BERGE SECOND AMATEUR

A Crosse Man Lands in Second Place After Leading the Field for 120 Targets

J. E. Barker of Minneapolis won the amateur trap shooting tournament held here under the auspices of the La Crosse Gun Club. The Minneapolis man broke 144 of the 150 targets in the morning. R. Graham of Longlake, Ill., professional, who in the Olympic games at Stockholm in 1912 won the world's amateur championship while shooting on the American team.

The tournament consisted of ten events of target shooting, each making a total of 150 targets shot at by the contestants. More than six thousand spectators were present during the tournament, including special events.

a disappointment to the promoters of the meet, the interest displayed by the thirty-one shots entering more than offset the lack of numbers. Downcast skies early in the morning served to keep away numbers of prospective entries from Wabasha, Wisconsin, Red Wing, Lancaster and other towns within easy train distance of La Crosse. As it was, the day turned out almost ideal for the meet.

Mitchell's Mark Untouched
Clayde Mitchell's mark of 149 targets of last year went unchanged. Trophies to the value of ten dollars each went to the three high amateur guns, J. E. Barker of Minneapolis, and A. J. Roberge and J. V. Winter of La Crosse. Money prizes were also distributed among the fifteen high amateur guns.

SPEED DEMONS READY FOR HANNIBAL RACES

The greatest racing boats in America are being groomed for the championship racing events scheduled for Hannibal, Mo., July 5, 6 and 7th, when existing American records are due to be sent to the scrap heap.
Among the celebrated boats which will be seen at Hannibal next month are those illustrated herewith. The larger upper picture is "Baby Speed Demon II" the 20-foot American champion which skims over the water, scarcely touching it, at a speed of 54.54 miles an hour. She is powered with an 8-cylinder racing Sterling. The boat, above, to the left is "Black Demon IV," owned by Johnson Brothers of Terre Haute and driven by two of their V-type 12-cylinder motors. She is said to be capable of holding her own with the present title holders. The lower oval shows the celebrated "Kitty Hawk IV," which is conceded one of the greatest boats ever produced and which in the past has always given the Reliance a real race. The other illustration is of the famous Chicago boat, "Hydro Bullet" with which Earl H. Deakin captured the Southern Championship a year ago. If only these four boats were available a hot test would be certain, but several others including Commodore Pugh's new 20-foot, 1,000 H. P. racer are to be at the starting line when the gun booms.

RUSHFORD WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. O. E. Laugen Stricken on Eve of Daughter's Graduation from Winona Normal

RUSHFORD, Minn., June 5.—(Special.)—Rushford was shocked Tuesday morning to hear of the sudden death, the night before, of Mrs. O. E. Laugen, whose home is in the south part of the city. She had been in her usual health, seemingly, and was busy in preparing to attend the commencement exercises of the Normal at Winona, from which her youngest daughter graduates this year.

She had attended the Sunday afternoon Memorial services at the opera house also and was about her home duties as usual when the sudden summons came. She leaves a husband and several children, besides a large number of other relatives and a large circle of friends.

Former Resident Speaks

Memorial services were held last Sunday at the opera house, a large audience listening to the program. Prayer and scripture reading; singing by the Lutheran and Presbyterian church choirs; music by the orchestra; a solo and also a quartette, singing by the L. T. L.; also by the school children under the direction of Miss Tillman and two addresses by Rev. J. C. Bantly, of the Presbyterian church and Hon. S. G. Iverson made up the program.

Glowing tributes were paid to "the boy in blue" by both speakers. Mr. Iverson also speaking at some length upon the fact that, at no far distant time war will have ceased to be the means of settling national difficulties.

Mr. Iverson is a forceful and intensely interesting speaker. He was formerly a Rushford man, being born here.

Mr. Collier, representing a line of Chautauqua workers, is here endeavoring to interest the business men and other citizens in the proposition of a Chautauqua for August next.

A meeting was held at the public library on last Tuesday evening, at which an encouraging number were present; all of whom seemed greatly pleased with the project and promised their aid, financially and otherwise.

Woman Journalist Leaves

After three years' efficient service in the office force of The Rushford Star-Republican, Miss Olga Larson has severed her connection with the work.

Local and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Freisenben, of West Salem, took charge of the Northwestern hotel of this city last Monday; the former managers, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cole, leaving for their former home in Sparta, Wis., on Tuesday.

The Rushford boys were the victors in the ball game played on the home diamond, last Sunday; winning by a score of 8 to 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Hovel Thompson of this city, are the grandparents of a ten pound boy, which the "Stork Express" left at the home of their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. White, of Mason City, Ia., last Thursday, May 27th. Mrs. White was formerly Miss Hilma Thompson.

Mrs. Hugh Irwin and son, Robert, of La Crosse, who have for several days been the guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Ozard and her sister, Mrs. S. Heogh, of Perry street, have returned to their home.

Miss Etta Erickson of Lanesboro, has been a recent guest of Rushford friends.

TROLLEY MAGNATES WOULD REGULATE JITNEY BUSES

Joint Hearing Before Senate Committee Develops That Street Cars Face Hard Competitor

G. H. GORDON REPRESENTS CITY

La Crosse Attorney Argues Matter for Wisconsin Railway, Light and Power Company

MADISON, Wis., June 5.—(Special.)—Representatives of the principal street railway companies in Wisconsin pleaded for state regulation of jitneys at a joint hearing before the senate corporations committee and assembly transportation committee yesterday afternoon. Unless such control comes and the jitneys are compelled to bear their share of public burden, they asserted, the street railway companies will face bankruptcy. At best it will create a strong argument for higher street car fares to prevent further losses. Each company reported large losses this spring, due in part to jitney competition.

The electric railway side was presented by James D. Shaw, Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company; M. B. Rosenberry, for the Wisconsin Electrical association, comprising all the street railways in the state outside Milwaukee; W. R. Foley, for the Duluth Street Railway company which operates the Superior system; F. W. Walker, president of the Milwaukee Northern Electric railway; George H. Gordon, for the La Crosse Street Railway company; E. R. Bowler, of the Sheboygan Railway and Electric company; Mr. Ellis of the Appleton-Neenah-Kaukauna interurban company; F. J. Trudell, of the Marinette-Menomonee traction interests; General Manager Bylles of the Deloit Traction company, and A. T. Van Scoy, representing the Milwaukee Merchants' and Manufacturers' association.

Jitneys Have Two Defenders

The jitneys were defended by F. S. Hunt of the Milwaukee City club, J. E. Laehr, for the International association of Jitney operators, and others.

"The jitney is the fair weather, short haul conveyance," said Attorney Shaw. "In good weather it picks off the profitable short haul business. It is not required to furnish dependable service. It comes and goes when it pleases. It is immune from taxes. It leaves the street railway lines to perform their obligations to the public imposed by regulation. These obligations compel the street railways to continue carrying the unprofitable long haul passengers while losing the profit of the short haul passengers. Such obligations compel them to continue carrying an enormous tax burden from which the jitney bus is exempt, and to continue the yearly expenditure of large sums of money for the laying and maintenance of pavements which the street railways do not use because they run on their own roadway of steel but which obligations have survived the horse car days when the pavements between the tracks of the street railways were considerably used by the horses and mules of the car companies."

President Walker also favored control of jitneys by the railroad commission. They should bear their share of the public burden, he said. It was to the public interest, he said, that the street railways be not crippled.

Attorney Gordon said that if jitneys under state regulation can do the business of transportation better than street railways, the latter might as well go out of business. The questions of taxation, personal injuries and morals should all be considered.

APPROPRIATIONS UP AT MADISON TODAY

MADISON, Wis., June 5.—(Special.)—The joint finance committee of the legislature introduced eight appropriation bills in the assembly this morning. The commissioners of public lands get $4,255 annually (cut from $5,000), and the unexpended balance on June 30, 1915, is to revert to the general fund. The grain and warehouse commission at Superior will get its receipts as usual. It is allowed $25,000 from the general fund. The Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association is allowed any unexpended balance that may have on June 30, 1915, and thereafter state aid is repealed, as in the case of other well established agricultural organizations. The state athletic commission is granted $3,710 (salary and expenses.) Its receipts go to the general fund.

Another bill repeals the state aid for county schools of agriculture and domestic science authorized by the Hull act of 1913, but allows these seven schools to continue to draw $5,000 per year as state aid under another law.

The State Historical society is given $50,000 annually, together with $3,200 for purchase of books, furniture, furnishings, etc., and $750 for repairs and maintenance. The Free Library commission is awarded $29,000 annually and $3,000 for books. The latter sum was cut from $4,000. The board of trustees for the state law library is given $7,125 annually.

COUNTY BEER BILL SHOWS DECLINE

Use of Beer, Wines and Patent Medicines Much Less Than Last Month but Greater Than 1914

The use of beer, tobacco, wines, patent medicines, and other commodities cost La Crosse and surrounding United States revenue district the round sum of $57,396.75 for the regular and "war tax" revenue during the month of May. Figures were given out today by Theodore Ritter, deputy stamp collector in the federal building here.

La Crosse consumed far less beer during the month of May than during April, although the revenue collected last month was far in excess of May, 1914. April is usually heavy as the "hook beer" season is carried during this month.

Revenue on beer last month was $5,095. Only $38,130 was collected during May, 1914. The sum of $57,396.75 was collected here during April of the present year.

Cigars brought in revenue of $1,097.55, also a decrease of several hundred dollars from revenue collected in April.

Wines in this district only brought revenue of $109.24.

Tobacco brought returns of $682.83.

Patent medicines were taxed $862.22.

Documents contained stamps to the amount of $1,546.67.

PHILIPP'S TAX PLAN TO ABOLISH BOARD APPROVED IN HOUSE

Collection of Taxes to Be Vested in One Man Aided by Governor and Treasurer Is Plan

MADISON, Wis., June 5.—(Special.)—After two hours of debate, with the opposition giving dire warnings that if the bill becomes a law the entire taxation system of this state would be rent asunder, the assembly last night sent to engrossment the bill abolishing the present tax commission of three members and creating a commission of one salaried member, the governor and state treasurer to serve ex-officio. The new office abolishes the present system for the collection of the income tax and creates a county supervisor for each of the 71 counties to perform this duty and to supervise the local real estate assessments. An attempt to indefinitely postpone the bill on motion of Assemblyman Ostie, failed, 43 to 31. The vote follows:

For indefinite postponement—Assemblymen Dobie, Donnelly, Engstrom, Frederick, Freehoff, Hambrecht, Julius Hanson, Heathcote, Heden, Herzog, Hess, Kay, Kent, Kleinstieber, McGowan, Melvin, Metcalfe, Minkley, Fordman, Nye, Ostie, Rentz, Schindler, Schroeder, Smith, Tews, Vint, Waldron, Weber, Wells, Zinn—31.

Against indefinite postponement—Aulenbacher, Beckwith, Berninger, Biel, Budlong, Caldwell, Cretney, Crosby, Dickie, Dixon, Edwards, Ellingson, Everett, Gamper, Grell, Harzer, Carl Hansen, F. S. Hanson, Harrington, Hart, Hedding, Heim, Kiila, Kretlow, Kubasta, Kubatzki, Lathrop, Laursen, Lentz, Moran, Morgah, Murphy, Nelson, Pieper, Ploeger, Prescott, Stemper, Stewart, Van Gordon, Vincent, Winegar, Woodard, Speaker Whittet—43.

Paired—Arneham for the bill, Falk against; Bradley for, O'Brien against.

The debate was opened by Assemblyman Ostie of Eau Claire, who said the passage of the law would mean practically a return to the old system of taxation, that the inheritance tax can be collected cheaper through the tax commission, in substantiation of the statement displaying a certificate from the office of the secretary of state in the form of a certified copy of a bill presented by T. C. Richmond of Madison for work done on one inheritance tax case for which a bill for $19,162.69 was presented. He said the bill was settled by Governor Davidson and Secretary of State Frear by reducing it by practically $11,500, allowing only a fee of $7,662.69. Ostie said that Mr. Richmond was one of the principal supporters of this bill before the committee. Before he could finish his remarks, Mr. Harrington objected and the speaker warned the Eau Claire solon he should confine his remarks to the merits of the bill.

Assemblyman Dobie of Superior said it would be a physical impossibility for one man to administer the tax laws of the state.

"Worst of all," he said, "this bill means the practical repeal of the income tax law. An income tax collected by local agencies has failed in every other state. The Wisconsin law has been a success because the tax has been collected through a central agency."

Assemblyman Winegar of Beloit spoke for the bill. He said he had worked in a factory where there was only one manager, and he believed that one man on the tax commission would be sufficient.

Are you in favor of one member of the railroad commission or of the industrial commission?" asked Mr. Nordman.

"I am not discussing those commissions," he answered.

Mr. Nordman said the tax commission did not assess taxes but only equalized them. Taxes were assessed by legislative bodies, state and local.

HOLD ALLEGED FAKERS

CHICAGO, June 5.—Two men who gave their names as Charles King and Hobart Prosser, were arrested here yesterday charged with conducting an alleged fake advertising scheme which, the police declare has netted them between $25,000 and $50,000.

The men solicited advertising from a down town music store. The proprietor became suspicious and had them arrested. Taken to headquarters and searched the police say they found hundreds of receipts signed by merchants from Toronto to Texas and from New York west to Iowa. It was also learned that Toronto police have been looking for the two men since last November.

They are said to be acting as alleged agents of the International Stone Cutters and Bricklayers union and were named to get advertising for the program for the 1916 convention.

NEW YORKER LAYS CLAIM TO TROVE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 5.—Mayor Bading received a letter today from Mrs. Emma Seel of 318 Fremont avenue, Bronx, New York city, in which she lays claim to the $2,000 in gold coin, found in an excavation for a building at 142 Sixth street. She bases her claim on the fact that shortly after the civil war, when she was a little girl, she remembers seeing her father with a belt filled with gold coin. Shortly afterward both her father and the belt disappeared. She did not mention the part of Milwaukee in which she lived.

F. R. A. PLANS OUT-DOOR EVENTS

At the regular meeting of the F. R. A. last evening it was decided to discontinue dancing for the hot summer months on account of the smaller dance space than in the former hall, and devote the efforts of the special committees to out-door events. A picnic for members and friends will be given at Myrick park Sunday afternoon and evening, June 13. State Manager A. C. Radke will be in charge with the social committee. The report of the excursion Wednesday night showed financial success, it having been the largest crowd taken out on the St. Paul this season on any moonlight excursion, according to the reports of the boat officials. Another big excursion is booked for the month of July on the steamer G. W. Hill and another on the Sidney for the month of August.
